at the delay in the opening of the house for reception of paupers; particularly as the winter is fast approaching and that with appearance of severity, we therefore respectfully request that the Commissioners will ^{forthwith} order the house to be opened as a supply of water can be had from the Millstream at so trifling an expense, and we cannot but express our surprise at the silence of the Commis^s to our former application on this subject,

Moved by Mr Farmer and

That some applications having been this day submitted to the Board and it being ascertained on reference to One enquiring why Anne Coates and five Children who were admitted on the Union at large, should have been afterwards altered, and a Portion of her family charged to Templeshambo.

In this the Board instructed the Clerk in reply to state, they were induced to make the alteration in the Charge, from the Circumstance of Anne Coates being married and residing in the Templeshambo Electoral Division during the lifetime of her Husband, who was the Father of her two first Children. That after his death she became an itinerant Pauper, and had the three last illegitimately, and that the Board deemed it a fair adjustment to charge herself and two first Children to the Division in which she resided for many years as a householder, and the three last to the Union at large.

One was read partially confirming the appointment of Edward Stapleton and Wife as Schoolmaster & Schoolmistress.

One was read remonstrating with the Board against giving the Paupers Meat for dinner on Christmas-day, upon which the Board gave the matter full consideration and were still of opinion the proposed attention of the Bictary on Christmas day would give rather general Satisfaction to the rate payers its cost being so small (under £2.10.0) that it could not be felt when divided over a Poor's Rate of £2600. and that the Board therefore trust the Commissioners will not deem them to have acted with impropriety in treating the Condition of the inmates of this Union Workhouse at Dinner on a day that the whole Christian World rejoiced above any other in the year.
